Success Story: The New York Times

The New York Times partnered with Caserta to completely reengineer legacy data ecosystems to cloud-based technology. On a tight deadline.

"We were really happy with the way Caserta was able to integrate with our processes, project management and build out the architecture that Caserta developed," said Matt Digan, Data at the New York Times.

"Caserta spent a lot of time making sure that the hand off between their team and ours was successful when the project was over."
